

BOARD ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF ENGLISH TEACHER

English Teacher Quits Following Rumors of Misconduct

W. P. Jepson, erstwhile teacher of history and English in Antioch Township High School, is out of a job as a result of action taken by the Board of Education Tuesday evening when his resignation was accepted. The ouster action by the board followed complaints made by girl students at the local high school who resented the English teacher's "too friendly attentions" in the class rooms.

Investigations of the girls' charges began ten days ago, when a girl student made complaint to Principal L. O. Bright and asked to be excused from Jepson's classes. Other students made similar complaints and stated that upon various occasions Mr. Jepson had tried to make "dates" with them.

Teacher Denies Charges
Jepson made a denial of any wrong doing and the girls bore him out in that statement, but objected to the persistence with which he attempted to force his attentions upon them.

It was the feeling of the board that such conduct was unbecoming in a teacher and particularly in a married man, and they deemed it wise to accept his resignation to take effect at once. Jepson resides in Waukegan and his wife teaches in Chicago.

The English teacher claims his resignation was voluntary and that he had decided to quit his job several days ago, when rumors regarding the students' accusations reached him.

A school board member, when interviewed today by a News representative, declined to state whether or not the teacher's resignation had been demanded. "The Antioch High School has always been clean," he said, "and it is our intention to keep it that way."

A number of applications have been filed with the board of education and from among them Jepson's successor will be elected, the board announced today.

They're Not All in the Ball Park

Colored Ex-Service Men Will Have Own American Legion Post

One of the projects that has been under consideration for a long time by the Lake County Council of the American Legion is now in a fair way to being brought to a successful conclusion and that is the formation of a Post exclusively for colored veterans of the World War.

Edw. J. McGeogh, the Commander of the 8th District of the American Legion, comprising all of Lake Co., has been interviewing the leading colored ex-service men and reports having met with an enthusiastic reception on the proposition. There are nearly 1000 colored ex-service men in the county and with their own Post, their own officers and their own quarters, there is no reason why this Post should not become the leading colored Post in the country.

While nearly all Posts in the county now have colored men on their rolls and there has never been any discrimination against them, yet, there has been a natural reluctance on the part of the colored ex-service men to take part in Legion activities, which it is now felt will be overcome when they have their own Post.

Further development along those lines will be announced to the county later.

ILLEGAL HUNTING LANDS MANY CHICAGO SPORTSMEN IN COURT

U. S. Game Warden Turns Over Arsenal of 31 Shot-guns; Result of Arrests

Excess enthusiasm for the sport of hunting and too little consideration for the rules of the game the laws of the land and the game warden have landed the usual number of hunters in court during the days since the season was officially opened.

Two of the devotees of the sport, James Hoag and S. H. Jursiek of Chicago were brought before Justice Farbell early in the week and pleaded guilty to the charges of shooting before sunrise and shooting non-game birds respectively. The pair received sentences from the court of $25 and $10. They were arrested on Grass Lake by Deputy Game Warden Henry Kern of Waukegan. Kern stated that the shooting occurred at least a half hour before sunrise.

Federal authorities have also been active since the opening of the season and their catch of shotguns confiscated from hunters caught violating the federal game laws in the Fox Lake region was turned over Tuesday to Assistant United States District Attorney Mary Bailey in Chicago. The guns numbered 31, most of them taken from Chicago hunters, according to Game Warden Edward Schooner who made the arrests.

ROBBERS GET $400 IN LOOT AT $00 FREIGHT STATION

No Clue to Identity Left - Believed Work of Professionals

Thieves who entered the freight room at the $00 line depot last night made way with goods valued in excess of $400.00. The stolen property consisted in twenty-five tires, four express shipments and three or four freight shipments.

The robbers entered the freight house by jimmying the door with a heavy crowbar which they left lying there upon their departure. This is the only clue that local authorities and railroad detectives, who arrived this morning, have thus far been able to unearth. It is believed, however, that the work was that of professional thieves.

The discovery that the freight room had been entered was made by accident by some passengers waiting to take the early train this morning. They reported the fact to Station Agent George Kuhaupt.

Chicago Man Near Death as Result of Auto Accident

One man's life hangs upon the slender hope that he will be able to recover from the effects of a serious skull fracture and concussion of the brain, and another man is in the hospital with a compound fracture of the arm as the result of an auto accident occurring early Sunday morning on the Fox River road.

The injured are James McGillen of 4541 N. Carolina Avenue, who is now at the point of death at Victory Memorial Hospital at Waukegan and Swan Johnson of 2543 North Kilpatrick Street, Chicago.

McGillen was riding in a Maxwell car driven by E. P. Cowper of 4334 Winchester Avenue, Chicago. As they approached the end of the pavement near the cemetery hill on route 59, they were unable to see that the paving stopped there, and their machine skidded into the mud at the edge of the grading and was stalled.

McGillen who, together with his wife and Mrs. Cowper, was an occupant of the car got out of the machine in order to flag the car driven by Johnson. Johnson who was driving a Ford and coming in at a fair rate of speed failed to see McGillen until he was right upon him. He swerved his car in an unsuccessful effort to avoid him and collided with the ditched Maxwell.

Constable Burnette was called to the scene, and immediately took Johnson in custody and procured an ambulance for the injured man who was taken to the Victory Memorial Hospital at Waukegan.

Johnson who had his arm broken in two places was taken to the Lake County General Hospital for treatment and detention pending information as to the seriousness of the injuries to McGillen. Johnson's car was demolished.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cowper, and Mrs. McGillen who were occupants of the Maxwell when it was hit were not seriously injured nor was Arlyn Holmquist, Johnson's companion, hurt.

Further action in the case awaits news as to whether or not McGillen recovers.

Board Of Education Closes Account On New H. S. Addition

The contract for the high school was originally let to the A. J. Bourgeois Co., but due to the insolvency of that company it became necessary for the school board, in co-operation with the bonding company, to take over the project and arrange for the completion of the building. The successful close of the business is a source of gratification to the board and the entire community.

Says Oil Prevents Rain

That lack of rain is caused by oil film spread on the surface of oceans by ships that burn oil fuel, is the theory advanced by L. A. Ramdas, a weather expert at Karachi, India. He says that this film, while less than a millionth of an inch thick, may be sufficient to retard the evaporation of ocean water, which is the chief source of rain.

HAPPENINGS OF WEEK IN NEARBY TOWNS

"I know you are guilty but I want to show you that we are just as good Christians up here as you are in Zion City. You are dismissed without fine and without costs", said Judge Harold Williams of Whitefish Bay, Wis., in considering the case of one John D. Thomas, right hand man of Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion fame, who had been arrested in Whitefish Bay for exceeding the speed limit. Thomas posted a check as a guarantee that he would appear in court and then stopped payment on the check. He was forced to appear in person before the court however. That the spirit of the judge was not reflected by all of the citizens of Whitefish Bay and vicinity is evidenced by the fact that it is reported that the total of letters, telegrams, and telephone calls received by the judge from those who had come to grief in motoring thru Zion exceeded 1,900.

Lead Indians Again

In the western sector of the American League, questions are still being asked whether or not Tris Speaker is to succeed Husky Harris as manager of the Washington club. The same old answers are being made, too, that there isn't a chance of such a happening.

Though Speaker is inclined to hold his tongue, his friends in Cleveland say that with Ben Johnson out of the seats of the mighty, Speaker will probably go back to that city as manager of the Indians in 1928.

Tennis Star Makes Withdrawal From Chicago.

The Middle West's best tennis prospect in this generation, George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, has decided to switch his university training from Chicago to Brown.

George is only 20 years old. Lott won national rank at the bottom of the first ten last summer, and in January left the University of Chicago, where he had never become scholastically eligible for admission.

George M. Lott, Jr.

Intends to play winter tennis in Florida. One victory there over Tilden encouraged him, but the "old master" has beaten him twice since.

He entered Chicago with some reputation as a baseball pitcher and basketball forward, in addition to the title of junior tennis champion of the country, but lack of concentration on his studies kept him off the varsity teams.

"Lott stands today," said one of his University of Chicago professors, "where Vincent Richards stood at 20, the flaming youth of his day on the courts. And unlike Vinnie he is not pressed by economic necessity."

Vice of Gambling

Be assured that, although men of eminent genius have been guilty of all other vices, none worthy of more than a secondary name has ever been a gambler. Either an excess of avarice or a deficiency of what in physics is called excitability, is the cause of it; neither of which can exist in the same bosom with genius, with patriotism, or with virtue.—Walter Savage Landor.

Y. M. C. A. Camp At Hastings Lake Has Record Enrollment

The Hastings Lake Camps near Lake Villa have just closed their fifth Summer season—which operated from June 25th to the middle of September. It was the largest year for attendance in the history of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. 1,984 boys attended for a two-weeks period while 1,100 boys attended week ends, making over two thousand boys in attendance at the Camp. These boys came from all over Chicago, being members of eight different Y. M. C. A. Departments.

The object of the Hastings Lake Camps—which consist of two complete well-equipped Camps, is to bring all the boys who attend into an ideal environment, and under as fine a Christian leadership as can be secured so that they may grow in Character and Service. The motto of the Camp is "Service thru Sacrifice". Over 500 parents visited the camp this summer and expressed their appreciation of the great good the camp was doing for their boys.

Boys need a place where they may romp and roam, and this is made possible on this site, the boys are under constant supervision, yet never does a boy feel that he is being watched or kept under suppression. It is not possible to enumerate the great good that is derived from a camp such as this. The way to know is to visit these camps when they are in session.

During the entire year groups come out for week ends, over holidays. A winter camp is conducted for 6 days following Christmas, at which time all sports are out of doors—skating, skating, and tobogganing, etc. Many groups such as Scouts, Church, Clubs and Y Clubs attend these camps. This past month 18 scouts from Antioch attended a week end under the leadership of Reverend Dixon. A great time was had by the groups: swimming, boating, etc. J. P. Hargrove is Executive Secretary of the Hastings Lake Camps and has just completed his 14th year as leader and director of Boys' Camps.

First Street Railways

Boston's first street railway was opened in 1850, and Philadelphia inaugurated a similar service the following year. The first street railway in England was at Birkenhead in 1860. In the same year a line was laid in Liverpool, and London's first "train" dates from 1869. The first street railway in France was from St. Cloud to Paris and was constructed in 1850.

"Universal" Languages

Volapuk was the name given to what was intended by its author, Johann Schleyer, a teacher in Switzerland, to be a universal language. For some time after its invention in 1879, it flourished exceedingly, but then it languished, and its place is now taken by Esperanto, proposed by Doctor Zamenhof of Warsaw, Poland, in 1887.

HARRY B. SMITH LANDS A 35-LB. "TIGER" MUSKIE

Local Fisherman Backs Up Reputation By Show- ing Catch

Local fishermen continue to demonstrate their skill in the north woods and despite the fact that everyone discounts a fish story, occasionally someone gains grudging admission of the wonder of the catch. This is true in the case of Harry B. Smith of Antioch of whom the Sawyer County Gazette speaks as follows:

"Once more Harry B. Smith of Antioch, Ill., while spending an outing at his cottage on Haisdel lake has demonstrated that he is well qualified as a fisherman, having caught a thirty-five pound muskellunge in that lake last Saturday morning.

The prize beauty was brought to town by Harry and several pictures were taken of it before it was prepared for shipment to a taxidermist for mounting purposes.

This fisherman has previously landed several large exhibits of the spotted tiger muskie; he has brought in 25 pounders and others of nearly that size. He now comes long with the information that there are larger ones at his cottage door waiting for him and threatens to bring in even a larger one than his recent prize.

How fine a specimen this big fish was is demonstrated by the fact that it measured 49 inches. Two years ago Geo. Heuser caught one of the same length and it only weighed 24 pounds and Henry Busse at that time landed one 51 inches long and it tipped the scale 35 pounds.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF ROSECRANS DEAD

Mrs. Mary Gleason Had Spent Three Quarters of Century in Lake County

Mrs. Mary Gleason, widow of the late James Gleason of Rosecrans, passed away at her home Sunday, August 28th at the age of 88.

Mrs. Gleason was Miss Mary Carney and was born October 31st, 1837, in Dublin, Ireland. She came to this country with her parents during her early childhood and settled in Wisconsin. Marrying in 1855 she moved with her husband, James Gleason, to Illinois where they lived on a farm a short distance from Rosecrans. Mrs. Gleason was still living on the farm near Rosecrans at the time of her death.

There survive the deceased ten children, James P., Margaret and Mrs. M. A. Hamlin of Pleasant Prairie, Wis.; Mrs. James Guerin of Libertyville; Joseph of Waukegan and Anna Peter, Paul, Lizzie and William who lived at home with her. She also had six grand children and seven great grand children.

Mrs. Gleason was widely known in Rosecrans and the surrounding communities where she had made a host of friends during the seventy-two years of her residence there.

A Dollar a Day Is Each One's Tax Burden Says Expert

"Every income earner in the United States, pays, on the average, at least $350 per year in taxes of one sort or another—in other words about $1.00 a day," states William Bennett Munro, professor of municipal government in Harvard University. "People who own property and earn large incomes are the ones who actually hand the collector his tax money, to be sure; but they merely give him, for the most part, money which they have collected from others. The owner of the apartment house collects taxes from his tenants in the form of rent; the storekeeper collects taxes in the price of his goods; the lawyer and the doctor collect taxes when they charge fees. Taxes are an element just as certain as interest, wages, or profit.

"Taxes do not usually stay where they are levied. They are shifted from one shoulder to another until they finally reach someone, usually the ultimate consumer. The ultimate consumer, not the big business man, supports the government. Remember this when you vote increased taxes."

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS TALK ON GARDENING

New Officers Take Posts - Library Facilities Are Being Discussed

Decorative Gardening was the subject of the address of E. A. Jensen, landscape architect at the O. W. Lehmann estate before the Antioch Women's Club at their meeting at the village hall on Monday afternoon.

This was the first meeting of the year and Mrs. W. H. Osmond with her staff of officers assumed official duties for the first time. A business session was held to consider the question that had been accumulated during the summer recess of the organization. Mrs. Oliver Mathews, chairman of the public library committee, gave her report. Mrs. Mathews called attention to the need for a new location for the library. She stated that use of the library was hampered by the fact that the village hall was necessarily in use for public purposes much of the time, and that the quarters were becoming crowded so that there was need of additional shelf space before any considerable number of new books could be added.

Representatives of the Highland Park Woman's Club were present to extend an invitation to the local club to attend their Better Homes Exposition to be given at Highland Park October 12, 13, and 14th. The Highland Park organization is to have a very complete display of modern conveniences, home decorations, etc.

auspices of the Lake County Farm Bureau. Come and learn how modern conveniences can be had on the farm. With city comforts, plus fresh air, sunshine, and the closeness of nature that we all admire, there is no longer any excuse why people should prefer to live in congested city residential districts.

High School Student Acquires Pure Bred Shropshire Sheep

Hert Edwards recently purchased a pedigree Shropshire ram lamb from Roy McNell of Avon. Roy is a student in the agricultural department of the Antioch Township High School and got a fine start in pure bred sheep last fall when he purchased two pure bred sheep from the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Edwards bought the ram for his son, Ward, who is also starting a Shropshire foundation this fall.

Jasper McCormick of Salem Wis., a Freshman at Antioch High School, recently won third prize in the Kenosha County Corn Club exhibit at the Wilmot Fair.

C. L. Kuttel presided at the sectional conference of the Illinois State Teachers of Vocational Agriculture at Plato Center on September 24th. An annual program of work is to be sent to the state department by each teacher of vocational agriculture this year. This is the first time in history that an annual program of work is to be made by a high school instructor and sent to the state department at Springfield. This and other important business was considered.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Annual Poultry Association it was decided to hold the 4th Annual Poultry Show at Antioch on the 19th 11th and 12th of November. The annual meeting will be on October 10th.

The 3rd Annual Community Fair will be held at the Gurnee High School October 6th and 7th.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—From the comfortable financial situation to which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to pauper status by the misfortune of a French, Haxson, whom he had unwisely trusted.

CHAPTER II.—Learning of Haxson's predicament, which means the destruction of his last hope, Milman engages a French butler, Achille Luty, who speaks no English, and is to replace Sneed, servant of long standing. By Luty, Milman sends letters to Prof. Fleming Bradney, Floyd Malet and Neeland Barnes, men whom the world has classed as failures, once of high position, in response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III.—After an excellent dinner Milman ushers his guests into his Japanese garden, where, after each has related the circumstances which wrecked their careers, he convinces them their misfortunes are directly traceable to the machinations of an unseen, unscrupulous enemy, man who had risen to high financial position and political power by underhand methods, chiefly blackmail, said Haxson. Haxson also ruined Bradney, and incidentally Milman.

CHAPTER IV.—Milman explains to his guests how, chiefly through his butler in Floyd's apartment, Haxson and the victim of malevolent circumstances, he had subscribed to a press-clipping bureau and kept a detective on Haxson's track, learning much of Haxson's doings, though nothing by which he could be reached legally. Milman impoverished through Haxson's financial crookedness, Milman proposes an association of the four men, which would pull down Haxson and force him to disgorge his ill-gotten financial gains.

CHAPTER V.—Following Milman's disclosure, his three guests, after a consultation, practically decide to join him in the fight against Haxson. Milman explains his idea, admitting he has no real plan to bring about Haxson's downfall, except discreditable details about his personal and business life which he has gleaned from Luty. Luty, Haxson's tool on occasions when Haxson has loosened Luty's tongue.

CHAPTER VI.—Haxson's political ambition is the national senatorship from his state. McKimber is the admitted party nominee, and must be eliminated. At his palatial residence, Great Rock, Haxson plans elaborate entertainments in his political interests. Returning to his humble abode, Neeland Barnes finds his daughter Anita, who had been living with relatives in England. Having no fit home for the girl, Barnes takes her to Milman's, where she is welcomed as a guest. Neeland is strengthening the plans of the "conspirators." Anita arranges to join them, assuring them of her confidence she can be of use.

CHAPTER VII.—Haxson, aware of her shortcomings as a society hostess, falls in with her husband's idea of hiring a well-bred woman and giving her full charge of the household. She engages a "Miss Agatha Brown" (really Miss Anita Barnes) to take charge. The girl arranges for the employment of her father and Professor Bradney as footmen in the Haxson household, and the "association" awaits developments.

"Dearie," she said, "I need you at once."

"Good," said Miss Brown, without excessive gratitude. "Another thing. If I stay I mustn't be hampered in engaging or dismissing servants. It must be understood that I have complete charge of the household arrangements. I cannot possibly run this establishment smoothly if I am to have the help running to you with complaints. Lady Horsham wanted me to relieve her of every domestic responsibility."

"That's exactly what I want," Mrs. Haxson said enthusiastically. "Where are you going?" Miss Brown had risen. "To get my trunks. I shall move in at once."

Mrs. Haxson sought out her husband and told him the news.

"Fine," he said. "Anyone recommended by Mrs. Haxson will be all right. I suppose you looked over her testimonials?"

"Of course," said his wife, conscious that she had forgotten all about it and not anxious for him to find it out. You'll like her. She's so distinguished. I don't think she approved of the drawing room furniture."

"We shall agree on that. Bellington furnished it like an hotel reception room. One thing more, it's about McKimber. I forgot to tell you before. If anyone asks you if I have political aspirations, say so. This goes particularly with the McKimbirs. You and I know, and that's enough for the present."

At a square house on Lower Fifth Avenue the young lady who had just passed as Agatha Brown burst in upon four hitherto men.

"My dears," she cried, "I've got it. I move in tomorrow and take complete charge of the household arrangements. I carried her off her feet. She kissed me and called me 'Dearie.' I left before she could ask to see my testimonials. I'm afraid I lied fearfully. It's quite true, Uncle Peter, they are going to entertain largely. She showed me the flat. She evidently doesn't know how to do things on a large scale. I didn't let him."

Neeland Barnes looked at her with pride. At a bound she had landed in the guarded fortress, unsuspected. The keys of the arsenal had been handed her. It was a complete triumph.

"Now you are there," said Peter Milman, "what good shall we be to you?"

"I've thought it all out. You, personally, will have to stop here, because the lawyer man knows you. I shall need daddy and my other uncles at once."

"I Could Never Do It," Said Bradney in a Panic.

"What possible use can you have for me?" Bradney demanded eagerly.

"Or for me?" said her father.

"All in good time," she laughed. "Uncle Peter, you made a great mistake in letting Sneed go. I am dismissing the Haxson butler tomorrow and shall want another."

"You mean you will put Sneed in?"

"Wonderful! I have his address."

"Won't Luddy remember him?" Bradney asked.

"Probably. Sneed will say that he left because he couldn't stand the place any longer. We shall have to let him in on part of our plan. Do you think he can be trusted?"

"Without a doubt," said Peter Milman.

"Yes, I made a mistake in letting Sneed go. I should have remembered his many loyalties."

"But what am I to do?" her father persisted.

"You and Professor Bradney will be my tail, imported footmen."

Justly Neeland Barnes stroked his chin and mustache.

"I've had it since I was a freshman at Yale," he said regretfully.

"And I've had this"—Bradney stroked his beard—"ever since I went shall be a French viscount, a friend of Lady Horsham's. You are a great authority on French furniture. That means you must study all the books you can get hold of. I'll arrange a name for you later."

"How about my testimonials?" Bradney said, suddenly coming from a trail of fancies in which he saw himself the perfect footman.

"I engage all help. Your testimonials will be perfectly satisfactory. The Haxson woman is afraid of men servants. She won't interfere. Her husband has given her full charge and she has deputed me to do it for her. I think she needs a friend. She bubbled most indifferently to me about the people she hoped to have as guests. Apparently she knows none of them."

"Do you remember if the name McKimber was on the list?" Milman asked.

"Yes. It was the first name on it," Milman smiled. It was plain the news gratified him.

"Another of Luddy's port-begotten confidences. John McKimber is aiming at the senate and hopes New York state will send him to Washington. At present there seems no serious opposition. I could hardly believe Luddy at the time, but he insisted there was a dark horse from New York city who would beat McKimber. I see now he was hinting plainly at Haxson."

"But Haxson isn't known politically," Barnes remarked.

"That does not make his candidacy impossible. Men have often ridden into high office on waves of hysteria." Milman's eyes were bright. He believed that Luddy had been right after all when he hinted that a dark horse would go to the senate from New York. But how could a decent man like McKimber, extremely wealthy, a large employer of labor, and a great power in state, be defeated? Hardly by fair means. Had Paul Haxson woven about him a mesh that would keep him inactive?

"I think I am right in assuming that Paul Haxson has definite political ambitions. He must remove McKimber from the running to get his chance. I think McKimber is in danger. His relations with Haxson—if he stays there—must be observed very closely."

"That can be managed," said Nita calmly.

"I should like frequent reports," Milman said.

"Footmen, butlers, social secretaries, and furniture experts on their nights out shall keep you informed," she returned.

It was a joyous company of gentlemen and adventures that night. In the butler's pantry Neeland Barnes was lecturing with suitable demonstrations on the care of glass and silver. Fleming Bradney, one of the world's great authorities on etheric physics, was listening intently and making copious notes. Barnes had rarely been so gratified at a listener's attention.

Floyd Malet, in the library, had before him Histoire de l'Art Antiquite, Lady Dilke's work on French furniture, and photographs of the Bureau de l'Art in the Louvre.

In the Japanese garden Nita sat on a cushion at the feet of Peter Milman and looked up into his clear-cut, thoughtful face.

"Uncle Peter," she said, "you and I are the only grown-up people in this big house. The rest of them are all enthusiastic children."

"It is very satisfying to be a child," he reminded her.

"But children never look ahead," she said wisely. "I am sitting at your feet pretending everything is going to come out right. You are looking down at me like a courteous sphinx in evening dress, certain that your plans are not to miscarry. Uncle Peter, are you a grown-up like me, or one of the children?"

"Nita, my niece, I am grown up."

"It is hard to believe," she said slowly.

"Why should it be?"

"Because, if you look ahead, you must realize that there's more than an even chance of failure. Failure won't be pleasant for any of us. It won't be merely falling as one does when one goes after a prize or a golf cup." She lowered her voice. "It may be prison, Uncle Peter."

"It will be if we fail," he returned.

"And you can keep so cheerful?"

"We shall not fail. I feel confident that I shall not lose this home. If dumb, inanimate things can radiate cheerfulness, this house with the treasures I love radiates it. I feel influences outside my own perception."

"It isn't lack of nerve," Bradney explained. "I simply don't know the technique of it."

Neeland Barnes was in his element. He had kept a large establishment and had been feared among people who had not denied themselves luxuries. He explained lucidly the whole duty of footmen in fashionable houses.

"Sneed will be there," Nita reminded him. "I'm banking on him. He will be nominally your superior and help you in any way he can. It won't be a bit difficult, Uncle Fleming. Sneed, daddy, and I shall be there."

"Where do I come in?" Malet asked. He did not wish to be left out.

"I have a very definite use for you, Uncle Floyd. I talked a great deal with Mrs. Haxson about her husband. He suspects the furniture, and he is right. Uncle Floyd, how well do you speak French?"

"As well as I do English. Ten years in Paris and no chance to forget it, because I've been teaching it as a sideline in Philadelphia for the last six or seven years. Why?"

"I'm going to invite you to stay at the Haxsons' directly you can raise a little mustache and imperial. You perhaps on some other plane, are fighting for me. Not for years have I awakened with such cheerfulness in my heart. When I wake up I find myself smiling as though I had just left friends who had bid me cheer up because victory was in sight."

"I wish I felt that," she said.

"There are other crumbs of comfort for you." He smiled. Milman took from his pocketbook a page of newspaper covered with his fine, distinct writing. "This," he went on, "is a copy of a conversation with Luddy. At that time Luddy had done me the honor to consider me dead and buried, a harmless recluse ignorant of what he was talking. He was able to talk indirectly, confident that not a breath of what he said would ever be translated into words by his listener. I will read it to you."

"There's one big-headed, millionaire manufacturer who thinks he owns New York state above the Westchester line that has a big jolt coming his way. Some day he'll go into my friend's office looking six feet high and weighing around two-hundred. When he comes out he'll look a dwarf and weigh as a bantamweight. I tell you, Mr. Milman, when a man has brains and no scruples he can get to Washington any time at all."

"You think he was talking about Haxson and McKimber?" said Nita eagerly.

"I am certain of it. Undoubtedly McKimber expects to be United States senator from New York. It is conceded he deserves this honor. If Haxson forces him out of the race, it can only be because he has some mysterious and powerful hold over him. You must not forget that for years I have been collecting all sorts of scraps of knowledge about him."

"Why?" the girl asked. "That's what is so curious to me. It seems so coincidental that just at a moment he ruined you indirectly you have all this knowledge to use against him."

"It was through Mr. Bradney," he admitted. "You guessed that I gave him the hundred thousand dollars. I believe in him. His lecture, which I attended, brought the donation. Then, suddenly, I found he had been dismissed. I had his successor interviewed, a lesser man and an envious one. He was frankly against Bradney. That's how it began. I bought Mr. Malet's wonderful group because I thought we in America had at last a sculptor worthy to rank with the world's greatest. I was interested in his eclipse. I found Haxson only when Luddy spoke of Malet."

"But my father?" she insisted.

"How did you find out about him?"

"It began at a dinner table. Someone mentioned the Sarnaga affair. You know, Nita, we are distant connections, and I have a family pride that is as strong as it is illogical. Even then I did not see Haxson in the affair until Luddy, port-soldier, told me that his patron never forgave. Then came instances of this vengeance of a society horseman who had thrown this patron of Luddy's into the sea."

"I employed investigators. Many of them. The first would get facts. I then dismissed him and engaged a second to build on this structure. I did not want any private detectives to get at my real purpose. I warned Bradney against him. But at that time Haxson seemed so immeasurably more powerful than the unknown Haxson that he laughed at my advice."

"I owe you an apology," said the girl. "I had no idea you had been so thorough. I see exactly what I'm to do. I'm to find out what Haxson has on McKimber."

"Yes," Milman assented. "I want to use the same weapon against Haxson as he employs against McKimber."

"It's a glorious adventure," she cried. "There's one thing which makes me uneasy," he admitted. "It is in sending you to a house owned by a man of Haxson's sort. He has the power to create the illusion of truth and sincerity when in reality he laughs at both. Good women have loved him as well as had."

"I'm not exactly a child, Uncle Peter," she reminded him. "In society one meets all types. I am not afraid. I can never forget the life my father might have been leading now but for him. I shall never be ashamed of what we are going to do." She smiled at him. "Let's go into the kitchen and hear daddy laying down the whole duty of footmen."

STATE CAPITOL NEWS IN BRIEF

The State of Illinois may fittingly commemorate the life of the immortal Lincoln if the present plans of Herbert Wells Fay, custodian of the Lincoln tomb and monument in Springfield, reach perfection. Fay's plan suggests a tomb and monument 500 feet high and surmounted by an airplane beacon searchlight. The custodians' scheme calls for a gigantic 300-foot base. Over 150,000 tourists signed the register of the present 200-foot statue of the emancipator on memorial last year, whereas in 1920 but 30,000 people affixed their signatures.

The state division of highways has announced the awarding of contracts for the construction of pavement in the following parts of the state:

Route 4, section F-1-G, Madison; gravel—Edwardsville Construction Co., Edwardsville, $2,831.76

Route 175, section 104 Peoria; pavement—Hartman-Clark Brothers, Peoria, $40,621.75.

Route 127, section 121B, Clinton; bridge—A. Culbertson, Oconee, Ill., $1,264.16.

Route 88, section 102B, Whiteside; bridge—Pickus Engineering and Construction Company, Chicago, $16,415.40.

Route 88C, Whiteside; bridge—Steel Bridge Company, Jacksonville, $17,577.72.

Route 88, section 102, Whiteside; pavement—Cameron Joyce & Company, Keokuk, Iowa, $156,108.78.

Representative Henry C. Allen, Lyndon, was named chairman and Senator Earl B. Searcy, Springfield, secretary of the storm relief commission created by the legislature at an organization meeting held recently in the offices of Governor Small. The legislature appropriated $50,000 which will be expended after reports to be furnished by the state department of public welfare are considered.

Members of the commission named recently are: Senators Earl B. Searcy, Springfield; A. S. Culbertson, Bunker Hill; and Ben L. Smith, Peoria; Representatives Henry C. Allen, Lyndon; A. B. Lager, Carlyle, and Ed Ryan, Lawrenceville.

The Fifty-fifth General Assembly also voted $1,500,000 for the repair of levees in various parts of the state which were damaged by floods; this work is proceeding rapidly under the direction of Leslie Small, director of the state department of purchases and construction.

Bids for the construction of 82 miles of paved roads, 16 miles of grading and 26 bridge sections were received recently by the state department of public works and buildings. Two of the pavement sections will be of the 40-foot type in DuPage county, aimed to relieve traffic congestion in the vicinity of Chicago.

Gov. Len Small has set aside the week of October 9th to October 15th inclusive as "Fire Prevention Week" in Illinois. The Governor's proclamation in part is as follows:

"Property worth $560,548,624 was wiped out by fire last year in the United States. Fifteen thousand lives were sacrificed. Illinois suffered $24,968,006 of the loss.

"Illinois, which has been the leader in so many movements, can also be a leader in the great campaign to reduce fire waste if public officials and citizens will co-operate."

Fines collected by the justice of the peace for violation of the Motor Vehicle Act should be turned over to the county highway commission. Attorney General Carlstrom ruled recently.

Illinois reported 36 new cases of infantile paralysis to the United States Public Health Service during the past week. Massachusetts ranked highest in the reports with 106 new cases; Ohio was second with 89 new cases and California was third with 66.

The Pied Piper of Hamelin has reappeared in this modern day and age in the person of J. L. Nicholes of Atlanta, Ga., who will attempt to rid the city of Springfield of rats. Mr. Nicholes claims to have killed 50,000 rats last year.

Chicken thieves and rural pilferers in Illinois will soon be a thing of the past when six organizations of state wide prominence, the agricultural press and the Illinois department of agriculture, representatives of which recently held a meeting in the office of S. J. Stannard, director of agriculture, get started on an active working basis.

C. V. Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer, an agricultural publication, was elected president of the new or-

Waner Brothers Boost Pirates

The photograph shows, left to right, Lloyd and Paul Waner, brothers, members of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball league. The playing of these boys, both of whom favor the outfield, is in the main responsible for the fact that the Pirates are giving the Cubs a lot of opposition in the race for the pennant. Both the boys are sluggers and outfielders de luxe. This is the first time in the history of baseball that two brothers played on the same team at one time, that is, both being on the playing field at one time.

"Words of Christ"

The word "Agrapha," a name used to describe the documents reporting the perpetuated sayings of Christ, was first used in this connection in 1776 by J. P. Korner. The technical meaning of the word as the title of this book was accepted in literary parlance in 1880. At present the word means "writings giving citations of the actual words of Christ."

Grammar's Origin Lost

The earliest grammar known to the modern world is the Sanskrit grammar of Panini, who flourished about 300 B. C. This gives the rules for classical Sanskrit. The author refers to 64 predecessors. One cannot say definitely where and how grammar originated. It has been evolved from the necessity of systematizing the use of words.

ganization. Alden Snyder, Montgomery county agricultural adviser, is secretary. He represents the Illinois Farm Advisers' Association.

Five plans to stop farm thefts, that the state Farm Guard committee recommends are the installation of burglar alarms, marking chickens with a registry number filed with dealers and peace officers, organization of county anti-thief associations, improved marksmanship, and the enforcement of the poultry dealers' license law.

Hard roads delegations from various parts of the state conferred with Governor Len Small last week regarding the early construction of highways provided for in the $100,000,000 bond issue. Early construction was asked on the road from Carlinville to Kampsville and the highway from Hillsboro to Greenville. A request was also made by Senator Richard Barr, Joliet, that the hard road at Crete, the home of the Lincoln field race track, be widened.

Illinois' new state penitentiary at Joliet is already accommodating 500 more than it was built to accommodate, according to figures presented by Judge Chauncey H. Jenkins, former director of the state department of public welfare, in an address delivered in Springfield recently.

ANTIOCH HUNTERS JOIN THROGS OF NIMRODS

Chicago Herald and Examiner Says Hunting in Antioch and Vicinity Is Unexcelled

Local hunters were out en masse Saturday and Sunday to take advantage of the hunting afforded by the many lakes in the region. Licenses for the sport were issued to 250 applicants between August 1st and October 1st by Village Clerk Harry A. Isaacs.

That Antioch and vicinity affords opportunities for hunting not excelled by any region accessible to Chicago is evidenced by an article in the Chicago Herald and Examiner. Helen L. Winslow of the Herald and Examiner Travel and Automobile Touring Bureau gives a description of the region and explicit directions, together with a map of the region with routes marked, showing how to get to Grass Lake, Fox Lake and other hunting regions in the vicinity of the chain of lakes. She says: "Grass Lake about four miles west of Antioch, is probably one of the best nearby hunting grounds. It is in the center of the Fox Lake region, along the Fox River. The low marshy land, with abundant wild rice beds and plenty of wild game, will attract many sportsmen who cannot get away for a long trip.

The season for hunting wild game opened yesterday in this state, and will continue until December 31. The resident license is $1 and the non-resident is $10.50.

Fox Lake Road Now Paved
The road leading from Fox Lake north to Antioch is now paved and open for travel, with the exception of about half a mile into Antioch. The concrete has been poured on this strip and it may be used in a few weeks. A fair market detour is marked.

The completion of this road north of Grand avenue will relieve traffic congestion on No. 21 and avoid the use of the rough roads leading to the lakes. Also a direct route from Fox Lake to Antioch, saving mileage, is given the motorists.

The accompanying map and log will outline the best routes for different sections of Chicago to this ever popular lake region.

Miss Winslow completes her article with a detailed description of each route.

Bob Reeves Sets New League Mark

When Bob Reeves of Washington made thirteen assists in aiding in the defeat of Cleveland recently he set a new American record for shortstops, the old one having been twelve, set by Kid Elberfeld of Detroit in 1901. The world record is fourteen, held by Corcoran of Cincinnati since 1903.

The second inning was the only one in which Reeves did not have at least one assist, and every member of the Indians was his victim, with the exception of Burns.

U. S. Will Grant Hearing on Fox Dam, Says Secretary Davis

dam in Fox River about 3 miles below McHenry which raises the low water surface about 3 to 5 feet according to the extent to which flash boards are placed on the dam. This dam and the adjoining small locks are now owned and operated by the State. The slope in the river above the old dam is quite flat, and the people of McHenry advocate the rebuilding of this dam to such a height as to furnish the desired water surface in the chain of lakes. The objection to this plan from a navigation view point is that it will reduce the vertical clearance under the two highway bridges at McHenry and one at Johnsburg, about two miles above McHenry. The present clearance under these bridges is 8 to 10 feet above ordinary high water.

"The Division of Waterways, State of Illinois, has just completed a survey of Fox River in the vicinity of the proposed dam and is understood to favor the construction of such a dam."

As stated above no dam can be lawfully erected in Fox River at the location in question until proper Federal authority therefor has first been secured. Referring to your request that you be notified before such authority is granted in order that your constituents may have an opportunity to resist the application, I desire to assure you that, should an application for a proposed dam be submitted with request for its authorization by the War Department, full opportunity will be afforded all interested parties to be publicly heard in the matter before a decision is reached.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) DWIGHT F. DAVIS,
Secretary of War.

Gov. Small's Answer Considered An Evasion
In replying to a request made by the mayor of Elgin that the governor allow them a conference in regard to the erection of the dam, the governor's secretary stated that Gov. Small wished to thank them for giving him the benefit of their views and desired to inform them that the matter of locating the dam will have careful consideration before any action is taken by the division of waterways.

The reply was considered an evasion by the recipients as they contended that the dam should not be erected rather than that the location was not satisfactory. The letter of Rep. Reid to the Secretary of War was elicited by the fact that it will
